13. Update on SWAN (Safer Women at Night) Project

This project was part of the Home Office Safer Streets 3 fund which was aimed at reducing violence against women and girls. Environmental improvements were being rolled out across the Racecourse and Becketts Park including help points which connected straight to the CCTV control room. There had been very tight timescales of 6 months in which to deliver a wide range of projects including a refresh of the Safer Nights Out campaign to fit in with the Government's 'enough' campaign. Various partners had been involved including Suzie Lamplugh Trust and Northamptonshire Rape Crisis. A new website (It Only Takes One – One community can say 'Enough is Enough') being launched this week. The messaging can address good and bad behaviour. There are good tips on the website on how to call out bad behaviour safely. A lot of training was available including for licensed premises and the safer routes from the University were being refreshed. The police Operation Kyack continued during the night-time economy and the SNO van equipped with responders. See attached presentation.

Update from Superintendent Sarah Johnson - Op Kayak does not use plain clothed officers. This is in recognition of the potential public unease about plain clothed officers watching and approaching women. The aim is to be active in preventing offences rather than an observer to offences therefore it has been important to be readily identifiable as a Police Officer. They do not enter clubs/bars and there is no surveillance apart from overtly by CCTV. Officers will always be double crewed but unfortunately it is not always possible to have male/female pairings on the basis of available resources. Feedback to date has been overwhelmingly positive from the public and from licenced venues. We have had no complaints about officers making women feel uneasy and actually they are extremely grateful when officers check up on them.

Pauline stated that the focus was on the town centre and night-time economy, but things went on outside of that and it was how we support people to make a difference whatever area it may be in.

Danielle Stone stated that it was an extraordinary we live in a world that is so scary for women and we shouldn't lose that shock. She thanked Vicki for all the positive work that was going on. She was often told by residents that they do not feel safe walking along the streets due to the fear of being accosted by men especially at the Racecourse and welcomed all the measures being put in but not all women out at night were out having a good time, some were returning from work night shifts. Also, we need to be careful how we expect people to intervene as her son was attacked when intervening to protect a woman. Vicki responded that there was a section on the website on how to intervene safely and although the funding was specifically for the night-time economy, a lot of the work could be taken into other areas.

Cllr Humphreys added that she was very interested to hear of so much positive action and agreed that we should not stop being shocked and asked whether the campaign was going out to sports clubs etc. Vicki responded that the campaign had been structured in a way we could do anything with it.

Katy asked for the website link as the Fire Service was heavily male dominated and she would love to ensure the workforce were educated.

14. BAME Sub Group Update

The previous meetings minutes (8 March) had been circulated to the Forum. Mavis stated that the group were inviting different organisations and services to the forum to find out what they did and their offer for BAME women. They were on course but it was taking longer than perhaps most people expected. Other issues discussed include 16 Days of Activism Campaign, barriers to accessing services by BAME women and The DA Bill. The next guest speaker was Cllr Ashraf and any questions about Council support were invited. The next meeting is 10.00am on the 10th May and would be face to face, venue to be confirmed. Discussions were needed between Eve/NDAS/Voice on who would be the admin support for the group going forward. Mavis emphasised that they were just a group with no funding and were not able to enforce anything.

Cllr Stone stated that a BAME network for adult social services had just been established and to let her know if anyone on the BAME sub group wanted to be part of this.

Anjona stated she had tried to join the last virtual meeting but couldn't so welcomed the face-to-face meeting. She also mentioned the innovative work Creating Equalz was doing with their workshop for black and brown women survivors of DA and congratulations to NDAS and Eve for referring women and for joint working to address the needs of black and brown women as it was very labour intensive. Also, organisations supporting BAME women were not receiving funding to do so and were going above and beyond.

Divya added that the Creating Equalz recovery course was for all BAME women, whether they were in refuge, but they had to have left the abusive relationship. The course ran for 12 weeks, and currently had almost 100% attendance to date (1 absence due to sickness). This was the first of its kind in the county and it was hoped to run more in the future.

15. Rose Review Update

Asy introduced himself as the Local Enterprise Manager for Nat West and he was here to present the updates from the Rose Review. In 2018 Alison Rose, who at that time was the Deputy CEO of Nat West was asked to write a review into female entrepreneurs and the barriers they faced. Alison was now the Group CEO and updated the review each year. The full review can be read here - BJ4GeuqbRBfiOfXSzsd \(natwestbusinesshub.com\) summary sheets to be circulated with these minutes.

There were 1,100 new businesses starting each day in the UK, a third of them by females. Female start ups on average had 50% less starting capital and were less likely to reach business turnover of £1m. A few of the reasons for this are: -

- Greater risk awareness
- Females have a disproportionate responsibility for care – this has been exacerbated by the Covid pandemic.
- Difficulties accessing funding/opportunities
- Women are less likely to have a relatable sponsor or mentor
- Women more likely to doubt their skills and experience

Giving female led start-ups the same opportunities/funding as those led by men could be worth £250billion to the UK economy. The report looks to put things in place, not just from the bank but also the government. The central initiatives involved around funding looking at a new Women's Code signed up to by a lot of financial organisations ensuring their policies consider equality when decisions were being made. NatWest had ring fenced £1billion for female led start-up businesses originally with another £1billion since added.

Work was being carried out in schools to put girls in the mindset, direct support was being given such as 1:1 support and surgeries to give confidence and allow the entrepreneurial mindset to develop.

Mavis asked if there was any funding for charities. Asy stated funding was occasionally available for specific projects/timescales but unfortunately no pot of money. Support could be given in other ways such as a meeting room and training to help business start-up.

Pauline asked for more information on the workshops. They were open to all and started at the pre-start stage, running through types of businesses such as sole trader etc and accessing different grants. They were quite busy at the moment with the change over from the European funded projects to the levelling up agenda. Asy would be a regular attendee at the forum and would be happy to get involved with next year's IWD.

Asy's contact details – Asy Ho, Local Enterprise Manager, 07788 347151, asy.ho@natwest.com

16. International Women's Day

Although having the presentation in a separate room had been very much appreciated by the shortlisted women, it had been difficult to hear down in the Great Hall and confusion about who had won. Also people had begun to pack up before 3pm.

These issues to be looked in to and hopefully resolved before next year's event. Pauline added that BBC Radio had supported the Inspirational Woman Awards since the beginning and wanted a letter of thanks and appreciation to be sent from the Forum.

17. Knife Angel Update

The Knife Angel will be arriving on All Saints Plaza late afternoon on Friday 29 April and will leave again early Saturday 14 May. Please see calendar of events attached to the minutes.

Background

West Northamptonshire Council (WNC) are rolling out a programme of environmental improvements funded through Safer Streets 3 grant of £513,000.

The Police, Fire & Crime Commissioner (OPFCC) was awarded £300,000 from the Government's Safety of Women at Night Fund (SWAN).

These grants are being used for a wide range of projects throughout the county. Funds from both grants have been directed to create a separate programme for the University of Northampton (UoN). However, the students will be using the services and benefitting from the safety measures created in the joint project.

Amplitude Media (AM) are engaged to create the shared campaign. One of the reasons to chose AM was because they designed the earlier safety campaign 'Nights Out Northampton'.

StreetSafe was launched in September 2021 by the Home Office, and the National Police Chiefs' Council as a 3-month pilot. Based on stakeholder feedback, the decision has been made to launch this service nationally. Using StreetSafe members of the public can identify where they feel unsafe on a map. The data allows police forces to understand the specific concerns raised and use the information to make informed decisions on safety.

Although open to everyone, StreetSafe is being used as part of local and national efforts to tackle violence against women and girls.

Validated trends will be taken to the Community Safety Partnerships in Northamptonshire where Police and Local Authorities will jointly work towards finding solutions.

We have made progress in the three years since the Rose Review was published.

Over 140,000 all-female-founded firms were created last year.

This is a record high.¹

Female founders are better supported:

Tens of thousands of entrepreneurs have benefited from mentoring schemes and thousands of students have received enterprise training.

The investment community is coming together to support female entrepreneurs: 134 organisations with a combined investment power of nearly £1 trillion have signed up to the Investing in Women Code, committing them to improve equality in access to finance.²

However the impact of the pandemic has exacerbated the challenges faced by female entrepreneurs.

Women have spent twice as long on caring responsibilities per week during the pandemic as their male counterparts, leading to their businesses being less likely to recover.³

Female-led businesses are still underfunded. New businesses are almost three times as likely to be started by men than women.⁴

£250bn could be added to the UK economy if women in the UK matched men in starting and scaling businesses.

We can still achieve the target of boosting the number of female entrepreneurs by 600,000 by the end of the decade, but we need to move fast.

We are announcing a fresh drive to accelerate momentum to ensure female founders get the same opportunities as men.

Together, over the coming year, we will launch initiatives to boost access to and awareness of funding, continue to seek solutions to challenges posed by caring responsibilities, and enable entrepreneurship through enhanced support, networking and education. This will include:

- 1. Women angel investor campaign: to support women in becoming business angels, ensuring that female founders have better access to investment.
- 2. Encourage the launch of further funding opportunities: our aspiration is for 30% of all investment in private companies to go to female founders and co-founders by 2030.
- 3. Expanded networking and mentoring opportunities: supporting hundreds of thousands of female founders over the next three years.
- 4. Recruit more Code signatories: and work with them to ensure their involvement instils real change.

"With fresh thinking, swift action and a redoubled effort, we can continue to unleash the untapped potential of female-led businesses to drive our economic recovery"

The Alison Rose Review of Female Entrepreneurship

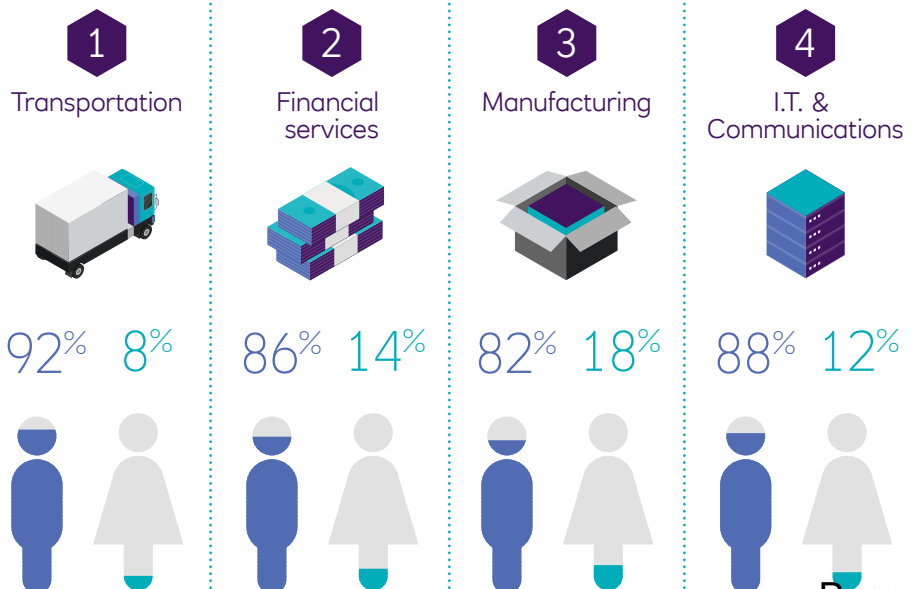

Advancing female entrepreneurship represents a £250 billion opportunity for the UK economy.

Fewer UK women choose to become entrepreneurs than in best practice peer countries.

Female entrepreneurs are underrepresented in the most productive, high value sectors.

Looking across the entrepreneurial journey, UK women are less likely to go from intention to starting a business and half as likely to scale their businesses.¹

SCALE⁵

1 Calculated based on data from Global Entrepreneurship Monitor, 2016 data, YouGov Banking Survey 2017

2 Intention of setting up a business in the next 3 years

3 Running a business that is less than 3.5 years old

4 Running a business that is older than 3.5 years

5 Running a business with a turnover of £1m-£50m

Three opportunities to help more women succeed as entrepreneurs.

1 Increase funding directed towards female entrepreneurs.

Women's average starting capital is 50% less than men's.

2 Provide greater family support for female entrepreneurs.

Women spend 60% more time than men on family care.

3 Make entrepreneurship more accessible for women and increase access to support.

Women are more risk averse...

Are more likely to think they lack necessary skills and experience...

And are less likely to have a relatable sponsor or mentor.

Eight recommendations to accelerate change.

Increase funding towards female entrepreneurs.

1 Promote greater transparency in UK funding allocation.
